

the prepaid
Press
REAL NEWS, RIGHT NOW!

this issue > wireless

Locus Launches New Wireless Service
GSM Added to Prepaid Wireless Portfolio

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, NJ (May 16, 2005) Locus Telecommunications, a prepaid MVNO, has launched a prepaid GSM service to independent distributors and dealers in major metro markets nationwide. The switch-based billing application provides for a unique set of features and pricing as well as handset flexibility and affordability with GSM – one of today's predominant digital wireless technologies.

The newly launched services include Unlimited Nights, an Exclusive Rewards Program, discounts on text messaging, free international long distance to over 50 countries, including Mexico, as well as free domestic long distance and rates as low as 9 cents.

Distributors can choose from a portfolio of Locus branded programs or create a private label under their own brand. All wireless programs (CDMA, TDMA and GSM) include the ActFast activation system, a support service that allows distributors, dealers or even end users to independently activate service through the web or via an IVR.

Ken Myers, senior director of marketing at Locus, said that the GSM launch builds on its seven year history of providing prepaid MVNO services with a base of over 250,000 TDMA and CDMA customers. Locus sells its services through a national network of distributors and dealers that reach key ethnic segments - un-banked or under-banked consumers - through more than 50,000 locations nationwide.

Source: Locus Telecommunications (locustelecom.com)